Makoto Miki is a 30-year-old housewife – she has two kids and is married to a banker named Atsushi. As a wife and as a mother, she does her job, day in and day out, regardless of how boring things get.

One day, while walking through town, she catches her husband cheating on her. Shocked, Makoto blames herself and decides to work on improving herself by applying for a modeling job connected to an article on dieting. Here she meets Sara Nakanishi.

Makoto succeeds in losing weight. And while she loses a model competition she enters in, she ultimately takes the top spot after Sara, the original winner, is disqualified because of her past as a professional model. Overwhelmed by a sense of fulfillment, she decides to embark on a career in modeling and joins a small agency run by a Madoka Kawase.

Meanwhile, Atsushi ignores Makoto's transformation and opposes her modeling career by telling her that a wife's job is to protect the family. To make matters worse, Sara is waging a vendetta against Makoto because she thinks it was her fault that she got disqualified from the competition.

At 30 years of age, and with a family to take care of, will Makoto be able to overcome all the obstacles that come her way and become a top model?!
